

LEVELS OF AFE MEMBERSHIP IN BRIEF

Individual Member: $155 - $215 each (see application) plus chapter dues and application fee for one individual membership. Standard individual member benefits include: subscription to AFE Facilities Engineering Journal, discounted rates on top rated educational events, discounts on AFE certification programs - CPE and CPMM, access to the AFE Virtual Membership Directory, discounts on AFE reference material and publications, exposure to the latest technological advances and services through AFE regional and national trade shows. Chapter membership provides individual networking and contact opportunities, facility tours and local membership news.

Group Member - $145 - $205 each (see application) plus a reduced application fee, chapter and region dues are included in the price for one individual membership. A minimum of five individual memberships from the same company must apply for membership at the same time. Each group member receives all standard individual benefits.

Corporate Member - Includes full range of marketing benefits with five individual memberships from the same company local or nation wide with no additional processing fee for $1,160

Corporate Member Council - 25 technical chairs from industry disciplines approved by the AFE Board of Directors that have standards input to support the association's education, training, and professional enhancement goals. Sponsors contribute $8,000 annually, which includes additional Facilities America exposure, or $6,000 without that package.
